The VVER technology undoubtedly played a decisive role in the key stages of the formation and development of nuclear power in the Soviet Union and Russia. All the first-of-the-kind power units based on the VVER technology began their long life at the NvNPP site. The power units with VVER-210 and VVER-365 reactors were started up here. Gas Conditioning and NGL Recovery Technologies The acid gas contents in most oil and gas production fields have been increasing gradually as CO<sub>2</sub> is injected into the reservoirs for sequestration, and nitrogen is injected to stimulate oil production for enhanced oil recovery. The treating and conditioning processes are becoming more challenging, particularly for conditioning gas to the high purity that is required for liquefied natural gas ...
